A Message from Ms. Wentworth To the Class of 2003:

Thank you, seniors for welcoming me,
As Principal member of the WHS community.

Taking your time to show me the way,
Answering the question, "What day is today?"

Rotating schedule? Block X before A?
From courtyard to cafe, a drop block, you say?

Helping me out, in other ways too,
Inviting me to become a member of the WHS crew.

Westwood green on Fridays, here it's nothing new,
That's what it is to be Westwood through and through.

Your spirit is dauntless, your kindness abounds,
A class of winners you are, champs all around.

Bodacious, in sports, outrageous on stage,
Loquacious in class, gracefully coming of age.

Congratulations, to the Class of 2003
May you forever be,
A member of Westwood's wondrous "We!"

Yearbook Dedication

To Mr. Raymond Kodzis

Presented by Katie McGilloray & Ashley Wirth

To me he's the smiley man who has been greeting me every morning for the past four years. To Ashley he's that goofy guy who has been holding the door for her since she was a little "munchkin." But to all of us he's the man of the hour, the individual to whom the 2003 yearbook is dedicated.

"They that stand high have many blast to shake them." This line was our honoree's senior quote in his yearbook when he graduated from Westwood High School in 1960. But don't fret! He wasn't gone for long. He was quick to return to Westwood High School in 1967 and has been teaching here ever since. Although we tend to imagine this man dealing with figures and numbers, during his high school days, he was actually better known for his musical gifts and athletic talents. Named both "most versatile" and "most musical" by his classmates, he was an active member in the Boy's Glee Club and the High School Dance Band. In fact, in 1959, when he was a junior the high school dance band was recognized for its outstanding performance on WBZ-TV.

Although during his high school years he excelled in football and baseball, for the past 27 years he has coached the WHS golf team. This year all his hard work and dedication to the team paid off when he was named Division Three Coach of the Year by the MIAA, and led his team to a state championship victory. Not only is this man loved and respected as a coach, but in his profession as well. His colleagues were eager to contribute some of his notable teaching trademarks. Across the board they agreed, his tremendous amount of patience enables him to reach all students. His keen sense of humor makes for a warm learning environment and his desire to see each student succeed is admired and respected. If you haven't guessed by now the identity of our honoree, perhaps these two of his catch phrases will provide a clue:

"Katie, baby you're late for homeroom again."

"Oh my heart"

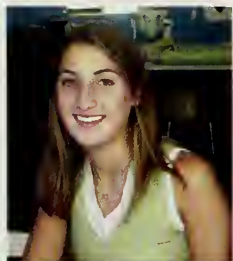

I'm confident the students know who we're talking about, but before we make it official here are what some members of the class of 2003 had to say in honor of this incredible man.

"He has been a part of WHS since my dad graduated. He is always kind, friendly, dedicated and by far worthy of this honor" -Kelly Criss

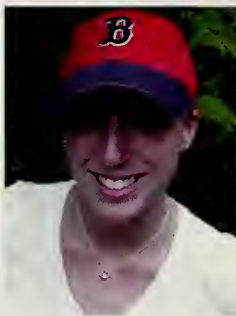

"He is the man." -Josh Giudici

"He is a great guy- winning smile- his students appreciate his skill as a teacher- everyone loves Raymond." -Andrew Azeredo.

Now the moment you've all been waiting for- we would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge Mr. Ray Kodzis. Mr. Kodzis, the class of 2003 is proud to dedicate this year's yearbook to you.

Nikki Oliveri: He's a funny teacher- always has a positive attitude. His class is really fun to go to.

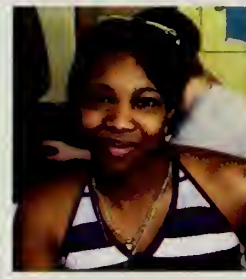

Jamie Harrington: Mr. Kodzis used to babysit my uncle and he's been here since my dad was in school. He taught me all I know about Algebra and truly is a great guy.

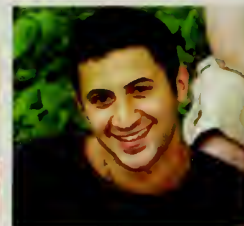

Mike DiSarro: "Oh my heart... Hey, Mr. Kodzis baby!" He brought humor and enthusiasm to math for everyone.

Brian Baylor: He's a true professional, and can brighten everyone's day.

Tia Mitchell: He's the sweetest, most loving man I've ever known. He's really funny.

Sam Saliba: Kodzis... if he doesn't make you smile, your mouth's not working. Get a new mouth.

Left: Mr. Kodzis comes to the podium at Class Day to accept the dedication.

Students and Colleagues Reflect

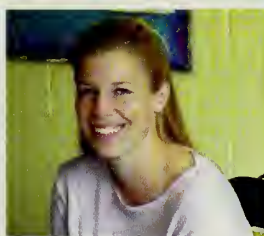

Mary Furber: What a nice man. He just brings a smile to your face. I don't think I've ever seen him angry.

Kaitlin Murphy: He has nicknames for everyone and welcomes everyone. He has a great heart.

Joe Leonard: Two wonderful years with Mr. Kodzis... and I loved every minute.

Kerry Vogelgasang: Not only have I had the privilege of working with and learning from Mr. Kodzis, I had the pleasure of having him as a teacher while a student at WHS. I attribute my solid algebra skills to his expert teaching ability- Mr. Kodzis truly has a gift. I hope I can become half the teacher he is today.

Kristen Barnico: He is always there in the morning before a test to take away any uncertainty.

Kristen Gillies: I like his sayings. He always says, "Oh my heart" and "baby, I love it."

To Our Retirees, Thank You.

"Madame's connection to France helped to bring the culture to the classroom. She is the happiest woman I know and it's contagious"
- Jeanne Hayes

"I have never enjoyed a class more than French with Madame Rice. It was extremely rewarding to have her as my teacher and we are all sad to see her go."
-Pardis Koleini

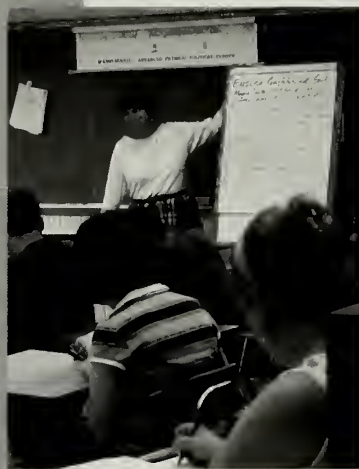

"Diane is a fabulous teacher- I've never met anyone who has as much fun teaching as she does! Her French is perfect. She's lived in France so she really knows the culture, and she truly loves kids. She will be missed."
- Ms. Deborah Roberts

Mrs. Diane Rice

Ms. Nancy Walsh Saumsiegle

"Ms. Walsh has motivated me greatly through out this year. She always managed to put a smile on my face and make me feel good about myself as both a student and a person. That is what exemplifies a great teacher."
- Lauren Keohane

"Teachers who really care about the community can have the greatest influence on students. Ms. Walsh was one of these special people. Though her leadership was not often publicly recognized, her work was always appreciated."
- Mike Springer

"Ms. Walsh's patience, graciousness, and intellect. I hope that I will display the same enduring commitment and integrity throughout my career that Ms. Walsh has. She's a model for all of us."

Beyond Words ENGLISH

The major goals of the English Department are to help students achieve competency in reading, writing, speaking, and listening; to demonstrate higher order thinking skills such as analysis, synthesis, and evaluation; to develop a critical understanding and appreciation of both our literary heritage and the diversity that characterizes much of contemporary literature; to deepen their understanding of their own identity as well as their responsibilities as citizens of this country and of the world; and to appreciate the diversity of the communication arts. Students should be able to write clearly and logically and to express themselves coherently and creatively; to recognize and apply acceptable standards of usage in language; to speak clearly and persuasively in both small and large groups; to develop critical reading skills; and to develop a love of reading. Individualized help is available throughout the day in the Writing Lab, where an English teacher is on duty. The Writing Lab also contains a number of computers for use by both students and staff.

Math course offerings are adjusted each year to meet students' needs and interests. To maximize individual help, the Math Seminar Study Area is available to students at any time during the academic day. All mathematics courses offered attempt to develop procedures for logical reasoning, encourage creativity in problem solving, and develop awareness for the place of mathematics in our society, of its power as a problem solving tool, and of its natural limitations. In addition, all mathematics courses stress precision in both written and oral communications, strong algebraic skills and data analysis and interpretation with and without the use of technology. It is the desire of the department that students develop a positive attitude towards mathematics, in the hopes that they will further their mathematics education.

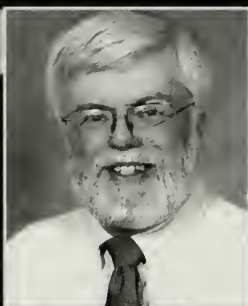

Our Past, Our Future SOCIAL STUDIES

The Social Studies Department aims to produce knowledgeable, productive and responsible citizens for a democratic society. It offers challenging and engaging courses to develop students' abilities to think critically, creatively and independently.

As freshmen, the students of the Class of 2003 encountered their first really "academic" history course when they enrolled in the World Civilization program. While studying ancient and medieval world civ., they completed diverse assignments, including book reports, and group poster and video projects. Freshmen also faced mid-term and final exams. When sophomore year rolled around, everyone took Modern History, a course covering the last 600 years of world history. The assignments and tests got even more challenging, with some students actually taking an Advanced Placement exam in Mr. Dore's course. Junior year, the toughest at Westwood High, everyone took United States History. Over 25 percent of the class took Mr. Brown's AP course and many more students took the SAT II in American History. For juniors and seniors the Social Studies Department offers a wide array of elective courses. AP Art History and AP Comparative Government attract students who seek extra challenges. Students in Legal Studies, Psychology and Major Issues in Contemporary History self-select either level 1 or level 2 credit. Social Studies teachers participated in the college application process by writing hundreds of recommendations for students. The members of the department wish to express that it has been an enormous pleasure to work with such a terrific class.

Discovering SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

The Science and Technology Department provides a variety of courses designed to prepare us for our future. High enrollments in Science and Technology courses each year reflect enthusiasm for interesting course experiences such as: studying the behavior of the Great Blue Herons at Lymon's Pond; releasing energy in chemistry labs by burning gummy bears; building Adirondack chairs in the woodshop; shooting water and flames to the ceiling by exploding sodium in chemistry; dissecting a variety of species; and yelling to find the speed of sound in physics. All subject areas include computer-based labs and real-time data collection and analysis.

Now We're Talking FOREIGN LANGUAGE

The Foreign Language Department endorses and strives to fulfill the core concepts and guiding principles of the Massachusetts Foreign Languages Curriculum Framework as it applies to the study of modern and classical languages. When we embark on the study of a language not our own, we are initiating a learning adventure which, over and above the invaluable acquisition of another language, can confer upon us multiple educational benefits, capable of exerting a profound influence on our perceptions of the world around us and of permanently enriching and enlarging our appreciation and understanding of ourselves and of others. Language learning is never just about words. Language is the medium in which human beings think and by which they express what they have thought. The study of language—any language—is therefore the study of everything that pertains to human nature, as humans understand it.

Spotlight On PERFORMING ARTS

The Performing Arts Department provides experiences in music and theater for all students. It strives to equip students with the skills to become sensitive and knowledgeable participants in the performing arts by offering a wide range of courses and extra-curricular activities. Participation in the arts is a way for students to learn about themselves and others; to define and enjoy beauty; to become more human by sharing human interaction through artistic endeavors; to value the creative mind; to confront those aspects of life that can influence thinking and to develop commitment, sensitivity, self-esteem and pride through performance.

Imagine VISUAL ARTS

The Art Department course offerings are designed to meet the needs of all students interested in the visual arts. Art courses are structured to accommodate varying levels of skill and interest in both arts and crafts, beginning with Introduction to Art, an introductory course for beginning students, and culminating in Advanced Placement courses in Art History and Studio Art. Areas of study in the program include drawing and painting in a variety of media, design, graphics, printmaking, anatomy, illustration, ceramics, sculpture, textiles, crafts, and art history.

Fitness and Fun HEALTH & PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The courses in physical education are designed to provide a wide variety of opportunities for students to achieve and maintain physical, emotional, social, and intellectual well being. All our courses are aligned with the NASPE (National Association for Sport and Physical Education) standards and benchmarks and the Massachusetts State Frameworks. Each course is intended to be both physically challenging and enjoyable for all regardless of skill level. When a student leaves the 10th grade, he or she should be able to demonstrate competency in physical activities in either team sports, individual or outdoor pursuits. The Health course is designed to teach students about life-long wellness by providing students with the knowledge and skills necessary to be physically, socially and emotionally healthy.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The Special Education Department provides a variety of services including academic support, individualized instruction, evaluations, and consultation. All of these services are designed to enable the students enrolled in one of four Learning Centers to gain greater self-awareness, added confidence, and academic success.

Advise & Inspire GUIDANCE

The primary goal of the guidance and counseling program is to promote educational, social/emotional and career development in our students. The counselors assist students and their parents to manage the transitions as students enter and leave high school. The counselors help students and families deal with emotional impediments to the students' academic progress. Counselors provide individual and small group counseling and workshops for students at each level. Numerous parent programs are also offered through the guidance department. In addition, counselors collaborate with teachers and administrators regarding student progress and concerns and consult with outside agencies on behalf of students.

Positive Exchange METCO

The METCO Program (Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity), is an urban-suburban exchange program. In this program, students are bused from Boston to Westwood each day. The program is funded by the State through the Bureau of Equal Opportunity and administered by the Westwood School Committee in cooperation with METCO, Inc. This program helps reduce the racial isolation that students in Westwood would experience otherwise, and it provides a positive educational opportunity for participating Boston students.

The BOOK

The 2003 yearbook is a labor of love by a small group of dedicated individuals. From January to July, Managing Editors Ashley Wirth and Katie McGillvray led an accelerated creative and organizational process. Conceptual development, design, layout, photography, copywriting, and the substantial gathering of content required countless hours. Yearbook headquarters hummed with activity during school, after school, on weekends, during vacations and deep into the summer. For all involved, the creation of the yearbook was a new process. The team, comprised of students from all grades, powered into the unknown with a pioneering spirit and tremendous commitment to excellence.

We aimed to represent the whole of WHS - the "US" of 2003 - all who contributed to its greatness. We are grateful for our secret weapon, Mr. Mao, who is everywhere armed with his camera and his obvious love of Westwood, capturing the moments we want to remember. Thank you, Mr. Mao.

The 2003 book includes 47 pages of color and an unprecedented number of photos. We deeply appreciate the generous financial support of THE COOPERATIVE BANK which has helped to make these features possible.

We hope you see yourself and your experiences in these pages. It has been our privilege to create this book of memories.

Key Club

The Key Club is a service organization open to students in all grades. Members are strongly encouraged to volunteer regularly at a site of their choice. Students have volunteered their time at local nursing homes, hospitals, and libraries. As a group, the Key Club has conducted school wide activities such as a canned food collection to benefit the local food pantry. Volunteer coordinators from different organizations outside of school have been invited to talk with the group about volunteer experiences. By the end of the school year many members have completed at least thirty hours of service.

Peer Counselors

Peer counseling is an opportunity for juniors and seniors at Westwood High School to become actively involved in the school community. Peer counselors are considered role models within the school community and volunteer their time and energy toward helping and educating others. This year after participating in peer counselor training, members served as "big brothers/big sisters" for ninth grade students, conducted the ninth grade seminars, attended the District Attorney's Peer Leaders Conference, and assisted with eighth grade Hale Reservation field trip and eighth grade orientation.

Peer Educators

Peer Educators is a group of high school students who provide educational programs to middle and elementary school students. Our mission is to educate fellow students about issues they face daily like social situations and peer pressure. We also strive to model and encourage responsible actions and respectful behavior. This year we held numerous meetings with administrators at the middle school to discuss possible future projects involving middle school students. We are actively working on establishing monthly after school rap sessions with Peer Educator representatives as leaders. We hope to provide middle school students a forum for discussing social issues or problems with peers they might be experiencing in a non-threatening environment. Since the majority of our members are seniors graduating this year we are actively recruiting members of the current freshman class for membership next year.

Best Buddies

Best Buddies is a non-profit organization designed to support and enhance the lives of those with intellectual disabilities by providing them opportunities to form one to one friendships. Each member meets with his or her buddy once a week to share some quality time. Members of Best Buddies come into the classroom during free blocks to hangout with their buddies. In addition the group also goes on trips outside the classroom. It is a positive experience for everyone who participates in the program.

Westwood Reads

Westwood Reads is an organization made up of high school students who volunteer their time to read to elementary school children. Through their enthusiastic work, members help launch kids down the road of academic success by inspiring a love of reading.

Ecolibrium

Ecolibrium is a club that studies and discusses environmental issues and promotes environmental activism. This year, by working with school and town officials, Ecolibrium spearheaded the effort to start a recycling program at Westwood High School. By establishing a system, encouraging members of the community to recycle, and taking on the task of the weekly collection, members of Ecolibrium helped make the WHS community more environmentally aware and responsible.

Outdoors Club

The Westwood Outdoors Club is a youth organization comprised of Westwood High School students that is managed by its membership and sponsored by the Westwood Recreation Department. Through participation in such club activities as camping at a Hale Reservation, skiing at Ragged Mountain and whale watching off the coast of Massachusetts, members hone their outdoor skills, learn about the environment, and develop their sense of leadership and teamwork. Nick Pirelli, a Westwood High School alumnus, serves as the advisor.

Spectrum

Spectrum was created at WHS to recognize differences among students and to increase tolerance for diversity, specifically around issues regarding people's sexual identities. Although the group serves as the school's gay-straight alliance, its focus is not solely on differences of sexuality. Spectrum promotes respectful behavior among all students by working to minimize derogatory language used to put people down, to combat stereotypes, and to encourage dialogue.

Debate Team

The Debate Team was comprised of three senior boys who were ready to argue. Newly founded this year, current members hope that a few silver-tongued, keen witted individuals will take up the call next year.

Youth Alive

Youth Alive is a student-generated, student-led Bible study and prayer group. Participants take turns in preparing and presenting a brief devotional from the Old or New Testament and share in leading the prayers. Each September the students organize a prayer-gathering, for students and staff, at the flag pole. This year they also led a commemoration for the victims of September 11th.

Drama Club

Drama Club provides members with the opportunity to explore their theatrical talents while contributing to the creative life of Westwood High. Annual events include an After Dinner Theater performance in the fall and a puppet show presentation for elementary school children in the winter called Kids on the Block.

Jazz Band

At WHS the Jazz Band provides the rhythm and groove that gets the audience's toes tapping. From formal concerts to providing the evening's entertainment at dinner gatherings and celebrations, the Jazz Band is always ready to swing.

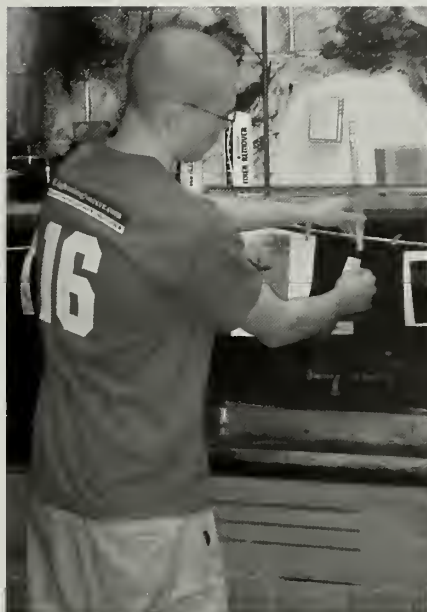

Sound Off

This fall, fifteen pioneering members formed Sound Off, WHS's a capella singing group. With its sweet harmonies and driving beats, Sound Off earned rave reviews at concerts, school functions, and anywhere else they could capture an audience's attention! With a repertoire that ranged from Guster to Bill Joel to Coolio, Sound Off had a great inaugural year! Though graduation saw the departure of many of its original members, the underclassmen will do their best to keep the Sound Off tradition alive.

Photography Club

The Photography Club welcomes all those who are interested in photography- from the novice to the expert. This year the group experimented with handmade pinhole cameras. Individuals explored their personal image making ideas and developed their film in the school dark room.

Chess Club

The Chess Club is open to all students interested in learning how to play the great game of chess. It meets under the direction of Mr. Brendan Dillon, after school on Fridays during the school year. As well as having a Chess Club, Westwood High School also has a very successful Chess Team. The team is made up of five to seven playing members who compete in the South Shore Interscholastic Chess League.

Step Troop

Step Troop has been in Westwood High School for two years. It is a team of girls with individual talents that come together making different beats using their hands and feet. Their unique sound and style has gotten the attention of many Westwood crowds at basketball games and the 2003 talent show.

Academic Decathlon

Academic Decathlon is the premier organization for academic competition in America. Students investigate and study sophisticated materials from a diverse array of topics. General areas covered include: Economics, Language and Literature, Science, Math, Music, Fine Arts, and Social Science. This year Westwood High School was crowned the state champion of the small school division!

Science Team

The Science Team, a new club led by Ms. Robinson and Dr. Ruggaber, provides opportunities to participate in competitions and interact with students from other schools. Through such feats as building robots and cantilevered structures, and even making paper airplanes, the 2002-2003 WHS Science Team earned a fifth place regional standing in the first year of Olympiad competitions. Science Team members also learned about fascinating fields like forensics, polymers, and fossils, and visited nearby laboratories and industries.

French Club

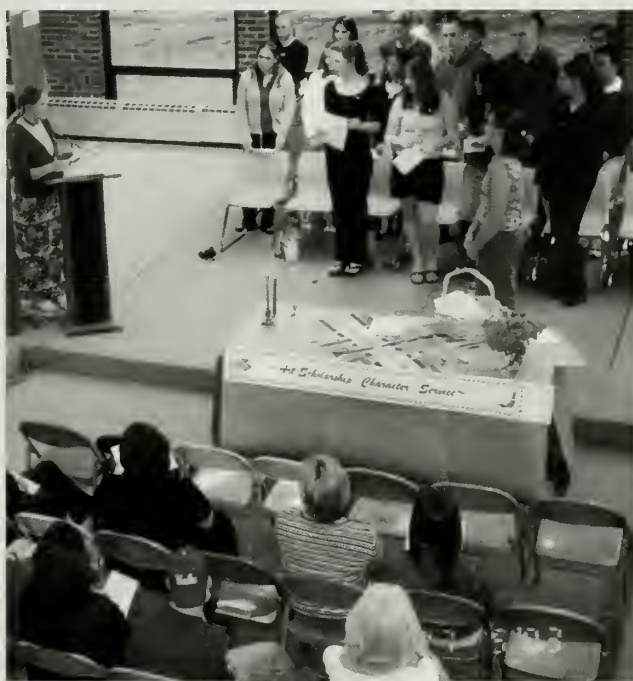

French Club was established by a group of students who wished to explore the French culture and French language. They conversed in French and ventured to French restaurants and French speaking areas.

Art National Honor Society

The Westwood High School chapter of the National Art Honor Society was founded in 2002 to recognize students' achievements in the arts, to promote art appreciation, and to improve the school's aesthetic. In the spring of 2003 students from grades nine through eleven were inducted into the NAHS in a formal ceremony held in the lower media center. The 2002 officers, Vanessa Schwede, Ashley Wirth, and Catherine Rossi handed the reigns to the 2003 officers, Juniors: Ann Sargent, Rachel Small, and Jessica Davidson.

INDUCTION

The National Honor Society is a national organization that awards membership in recognition of a student's scholarship, leadership, service, and character. After an assessment of a student's academic record in the junior year, qualified students are invited to apply for membership in the Westwood High School Chapter. As demonstration of their individual commitment to the school and larger community, members of NHS participate in a variety of projects. This year students helped organize the opening day of school, volunteered as guides at the fall open house, handled the logistics of the parent conference night, and sponsored the annual American Red Cross Blood Drive, collecting an unprecedented number of pints of blood. At the induction ceremony in April, 52 new members were welcomed into membership with a dessert buffet and remarks by Mr. Wayne Chatterton. This year, we say good-bye to Ms. Walsh, our advisor, with gratitude for her years of service to the community.

spontaneous riotous gracious ambitious stupendous genius

Diving into a Shallow Pond

Dear Seniors:

The purpose of the Literature and Justice Senior English elective was not only to study issues of justice and injustice ranging from prisons to homelessness to hunger, but also to do something about them. Towards this end, every student participating in the course took part in a weekly service project for the entire semester. Students worked to improve the lives of Boston's more than 6,000 homeless men and women at the CASPAR Homeless Shelter, Harvard Square Homeless Shelter, and Women's Lunch Place. At the Community Servings kitchen, students worked to meet the hunger and health concerns of the thousands of men and women in Boston living with AIDS, helping Community Servings to prepare and deliver over fourteen hundred meals daily. And students working at the Beethoven Elementary School and Roxbury Preparatory Charter School joined in the effort to prepare under-served elementary and middle school students with the academic tools necessary for success. In total, the seniors participating in the 2002-2003 Literature and Justice course compiled more than 1600 service hours, unquestionably affecting positive change in the lives of literally thousands of men, women, and children in Massachusetts.

As the teacher of the Literature and Justice course, I can truly say that I am both proud and inspired by what my students accomplished this year. Marian Wright Edelman, the founder of the Children's Defense Fund, once said, "A lot of people are waiting for Martin Luther King or Mahatma Gandhi to come back—but they are gone. We are it. It is up to us. It is up to you." The fact that almost half of the class of 2003 signed up for a course that required them to sacrifice weekends, evenings, and afternoons tells me that this is a group of young people who recognize that the task of making this world a more just one is up to them and have already begun to take up that challenge.

Right now, in 2003, as you head off into the world, there are some grim realities we must face. More than 2,000,000 Americans in prison; 600,000 Americans homeless; more than 24,000 people dying every day across the world from hunger and malnutrition. I know that many of you will continue to combat these problems through your careers, your service and your charity. Perhaps you will nostalgically pick this yearbook up twenty-five years from now, read these words, and smile satisfied at the improvements we as a country and as a world have made. I hope so. Marian Wright Edelman also said, "You just need to be a flea against injustice. Enough committed fleas biting strategically can make even the biggest dog uncomfortable and transform even the biggest nation." Don't stop biting!

Best,

Mr. Seider

"Having been a part of the CASPAR group has broadened my understanding and sympathy for the homeless. We as a community in Massachusetts should help these people, for they are just like all of us." - Dave Duff

"By helping to achieve Roxbury Prep's goal, I am helping one student acquire the skill needed for high school and helping ensure a better, more comfortable life for one person." - Andrew Wong

"After each visit, I would think about how much we accomplished as a group and therefore how much we helped the shelter."

-Kristin Kjellman

"I realized that helping every week means much more than helping once a year...I formed a relationship with these people who I prepared meals for, even though I never got to meet them."

-Caroline Santilli

"I will treasure the memories that were created through the tutoring sessions and the eye opening lens that has been placed before me."

-Chris Davidson

"It was interesting how different it was dealing with homeless people firsthand than it is just reading an article or seeing a statistic."

- Erin Caldwell

Literature & Justice 2003

"I have gained so much from this experience: pride, a sense of fulfillment, and a renewed appreciation for what it means to be a mentor and a teacher."

-Lindsay Finn

"I was always surprised at how much we could accomplish. The amount of meals we helped to make would usually be in the hundreds. I felt like we held the fort down on Thursday nights."

- J.T. McNeil

"I always knew I wanted a career that I didn't do something just for myself, but something in which I did things for others. Roxbury Prep has showed me how much I like working with kids and has really validated my decision to become a pediatrician."

-Sarah Arpino

"As I was leaving, Jessica gave me a hug and thanked me for helping and taking the time to read with her. I felt as though I had made a difference in her school life this year, and she certainly made a difference in mine."

-Jill Regan

"While it may seem that I should be off studying for my career instead of tutoring children, my personal goals include promoting general well-being and peace in the world. And education is the first step towards self-improvement. By helping these kids, I'm doing a little part to help the world towards equality and acceptance."

-Mike Kinney

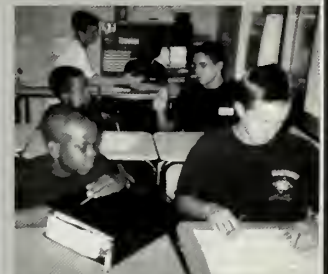

"There are thousands of men and women in Boston who are infected with the HIV virus, some who can't fend for themselves. It's the many people who can't make their own food that strikes me the most. It must be hard to live your life when it's a struggle to eat every day."

-Paula Sheehan

"I was surprised that going to CASPAR on Sundays became something I really looked forward to."

-Owen Gallagher

"I wasn't thrilled about working as a math tutor at first, but then working with Shaquan turned into something I actually enjoyed."

-Josh Giudici

"One thing I gained from this experience is that kids and people in general just need a little push to help them get going."

-Andrew Jeremiah Keefe

"One thing that made me feel good about what I was doing is that I not only helped someone with AIDS but also the workers in the Community Services kitchen."

-Mark Eosco

"It was surprising to see how a relationship can grow over such a short period of time. It was comforting to know I had made a difference in Karolyne's life."

-Kate Gold

"I take pride in knowing I had a hand in helping him to become a better reader and to become more excited about reading books."

-Steve Staiti

"The small role I played in his development as a student is one of the best things I have done in my life. This experience will stay with me forever and hopefully inspire me to do even more volunteer work in the future."

-Tom Ciampa

When in Rome

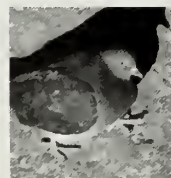

A Tour Through the Heart of Italy

Italy received a strong dose of Americana this February when 14 seniors crossed the Atlantic in search of a little bit of culture and a lot of good food (meaning veal). After ten hours of grueling travel, the seniors and their fearless leaders (Assistant Principal Emily Parks and Art Connoisseur Diane Kaiser) arrived in Rome, greeted by lovely weather and an empty conveyor belt. While some students waited a mere 12 hours for their "misplaced luggage," others strolled through Italy for several days wearing the same sweatshirts as their suitcases criss-crossed Europe.

Despite the initial mishap, Italy was a wonderful opportunity not just to witness some of the Renaissance's greatest art, but also to sample a culture and cuisine quite different from our own. Much to our disappointment, Italian cuisine is nothing like the way it looks in the Olive Garden commercials; meaning, portions are notably smaller. Florence, Venice and Rome's countless museums and piazzas however, did not disappoint. Strolls through the Uffizi were followed by a visit to the Academy to see Michelangelo's David; in Venice we explored the Doge's palace and Rome provided a snap shot of the ancient world with visits to the Coliseum and the Forum. In between trips to see priceless works of art, everyone managed to have time to shop, check out the night life and spend some quality time with our beloved tour guide Anna Maria as we wandered through the pitch black streets of Venice.

After a whirlwind ten days, we returned home with wonderful memories, broader horizons and a few extra pounds, thanks to some excessive gelato consumption.

Shopping gurus, Ms. Parks and Ms. Kaiser, take a piece of Venice home.

THE Crucible

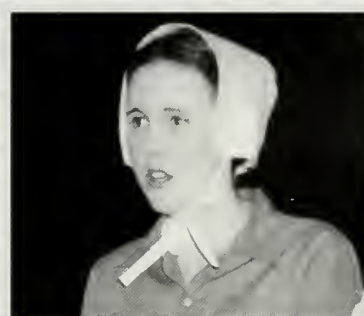

In his inaugural performance as Westwood High School's theater director, Jim Howard led a talented and bewitching cast of 60 in WHS Performing Arts' chilling rendition of Arthur Miller's The Crucible. Thanks to the hard work and long hours of all involved, the play was a dramatic triumph. Utilizing a minimalist set and coarse period costumes, the cast and crew recreated 17th century Massachusetts when a group of adolescent teenage girls wreak havoc on the insular community of Salem by accusing various citizens of witchcraft - an egregious offense in the morally stringent 1690's. Events take a grisly turn when innocent people begin to die at the hands of their accusers. The dramatic climax, also the play's wrenching ending, leaves the audience with a clear impression of the damage jealousy and falsehoods can cause.

Music and Passion

April 10, 11, 12, 2003

As April temperatures plummeted in typical New England fashion, Westwood High School Performing Arts turned up the heat with three scorching performances of Barry Manilow's whimsical Copacabana. Set in the 1940's, Copa is a glitz-and-glam packed celebration of post war euphoria that recounts the innocent love of struggling maestro Tony and his muse, Lola. As Lola chases her dream of musical stardom, she suddenly finds herself at the center of a musical maelstrom between New York's Copacabana and its Cuban rival, the Tropicana. When the Tropicana's nefarious owner, Rico, becomes enamored with young Lola, he spirits her away to replace his aging star Conceita. The excitement and tension between a colorful and boisterous cast of characters erupts in a shocking show stopper. With exuberant dance numbers and poignant ballads, the cast and crew of 100+ WHS students combined to recreate the "music and passion" that permeated the fictional world of the Copacabana.

Under the leadership of first year Director Jim Howard, Copacabana came to life through colorful costumes, inspired acting and innovative scenery. Veteran Music Director Jim Giurleo and his student pit band tackled challenging musical scores, creating a truly vibrant atmosphere to compliment the play's lively essence. The cast and crew's late night rehearsals, last minute coffee runs and pre-show "psych-ups" all culminated in three nights of theatrical success and celebration.

10th Annual Martin Luther King POTLUCK DINNER

The 10th Annual Martin Luther King, Jr. Potluck Dinner event delivered entertainment and great inspiration. Hosted by the MECTO Program, the dinner drew students, their families, teachers, staff, and administrators. METCO Director Sheryl Goodloe organized a rich program of guest speakers, musical performers, and student presenters to celebrate diversity and the legacy of Dr. King. A gospel choir raised spirits with uplifting songs. Mistress of Ceremonies, Takiya Anthony, recited her own poetry and presided over the festivities with panache. Parent volunteers from Westwood and Boston helped to make the evening a great success.

MOMENTS LIKE THESE

Two and Fourteen

It was a dizzying season (especially for Ashley who at times got so dizzy she collapsed.) Mr. Max Callahan was on everyone's mind, and Casey did not appreciate it! Since our record wasn't stellar, we focus on our many winning characters:

LJ provided the moves and music in true Shakira style, and 'Sweetie Pies' Jen, Lauren, and Courtney covered for the rest of us. Since we had a hard time winning games, we instead won the hearts of the Holliston football players.

Who could forget our runs? All of us! But who could forget the Pink Ladies? No one! Jamie's abs, Ashley's cleats, Lauren's ribbons, Courtney's smile, Candice's witch outfit, Katie's acceleration, Rory's shouts, Jeanne's teeth, Laura's laugh, Gillis' cheering, Jamie's high stick, Lisa's move to defense, Carly's "food," and LJ's singing all made for a crazy field hockey season.

After working tirelessly and suffering numerous defeats, our last game compensated for the entire season. Having gone to Hopkinton for the second time in two days, we left our hearts on the field. All seventeen seniors played their best games and came out with a win. Despite our record, we had a winning season filled with lots of laughs and priceless memories.

"You may lose and you may win, but you'll never be here again."

The Westwood High School Wolverines endured a series of setbacks and dealt with a great deal of adversity. Despite several obstacles, the team had a successful season thanks to a group of crazy seniors and hardworking underclassmen. The season rode like a rollercoaster with glorious victories and agonizing defeats. Though the Wolverines were lacking a home field during the season, that didn't stop them from being predators on the road. The high point of the season came on a Friday, when the team embarked for a mysterious island. The island was home to a purple beast that had never been vanquished at night; until Westwood came. After we vanquished the beast, we pillaged the island and danced through the night. The following Monday the field hockey girls had to wear our dirty practice jerseys.

We had a great season but our record doesn't reflect our ability. Most of our losses were by one goal, including two losses to Medway (the Division Three defending State Champions.) We had a fun and enjoyable season highlighted by many funny moments. Who could forget Gavin using basketball skill to catch the soccer ball during

We started the season a little slowly with a 3-3-3 record. The turning point came during an electrifying 1-0 loss at Ashland, during which Coach Gary Burke got the boot for two weeks. During the temporary loss of Burke, Coach Brenton took the reigns to lead us to two ties.

By the time Gary came back, we were ready to dominate. From that point on we went 7-1-2, including two big wins over Hopkinton. The Hopkinton wins were especially significant because Hopkinton was last year's champions and undefeated in 2002...until they played us. We ruined their streak, not once, but twice.

The Volleyball team may not have been as victorious as we hoped to be, but we managed to break last year's record and have a blast. Our team spirit was unstoppable. We played against some great teams, and managed to hold our own.

Our most memorable game was against Medfield. Despite the fact that we were the "underdogs" (and well, we still lost) we put up one of our best fights against one of the Tri-Valley League's finest. Medfield expected an easy win, and we were leading by nine points half-way through the first match. It was awesome to see our fans come and support us (very vocally) in our tightest match of the season.

We managed to break last year's record against Holliston. Despite falling behind, we stormed back to win the game and break the record. We wish the best of luck to next year's team. Keep up the spirit and break the record again! Go for Three!

CHAMPS to a TEE

Undefeated

Was it the motivational speeches that brought us to the State Championship? Or was it Loretta's breakfasts? Either way, we followed last year's 16-0 campaign with another 16-0 run in the Tri-Valley League. We won the TVL tournament at the New England CC lead by individual champion Andy Burke, who shot 78. We won the Division three South Sectionals at Foxboro CC, and finished strong at the Division three State Championship at New Seabury CC by 13 strokes. Phil Holden won the individual state championship by shooting 74, Andy Burke finished second with a 76, Chris Nicoles shot 81, Tim Holden shot 82, Mark Leone shot 85, and Christian McGowan rounded out the scoring with a smooth 90. So, we're state champs, or something? We know we are arguably one of the best looking teams in the state, headlined by Abercrombie model Danny McGinnis. Thanks to Mr. Kodzis (coach of the year!) our parents, and, of course, our fans.

This match sure is a nail-biter!

Before a big meet at WW, the first thing you hear is our theme song, "Ain't No Mountain High Enough." The loss of six of last year's seniors was difficult, however the team stepped-up to the plate with a number of underclassmen taking larger roles on the team. Ten freshmen joined the team this year giving us depth and a flexible line-up.

Although we struggled through a few meets, we had a lot of team spirit. Conference championships, our final meet, was the most memorable meet of the season. Our team spirit, as well as our team bonding, really stood out. Everytime there was a member of our team swimming, everyone was cheering. There is cheering at every meet, but conference brings a whole new meaning to team spirit. Conference was the last meet in which everyone swam. We sent eight swimmers to sectionals. Gina Perkins, Leah Moriarty, Shannon Obey and Anne Gildea all swam individual events, while Taylor Obey, Katheryn Reece, Colleen Sullivan and Liz MacKenzie contributed in relays. We also sent four swimmers to states. The 200yd and 400yd relays of Anne Gildea, Kathryn Reece, Shannon Obey and Leah Moriarty excelled and dropped their times in both. Anne Gildea also swam and placed in the 50yd and 100yd freestyle. We had a great season filled with hard work and lots of fun.

Ready to hit the water, the members of the girls' swim team anxiously await their turns to race in front of a hometown crowd.

2003 proved to be a year of improvement for the Westwood High School Cross Country Team. Compared to our record of one win and six losses for 2002, this year's record of three wins and four losses was a notable change.

This year also brought many new faces to the team, including upper classmen who had never participated in cross country before. The dedication of both the newcomers and the veterans resulted in improved team and individual performances.

Tri-Valley League all-star, Greg Scanlon, had five first-place finishes in seven meets and lead the team to our most notable victory against Ashland at the TVL Championship Meet. We had lost to Ashland in our second dual meet of the season, and subsequently pushed ourselves with grueling workouts so we could defeat them when we met again. Twenty-two and Two Having lost three of last year's stars to graduation and standout Paula Sheehan to an ACL injury, the season began as an uphill climb. Despite our depleted roster our 2002-2003 season was a success. In the first game of our February tournament, we won our record seventy-first consecutive win, a feat few teams have ever accomplished. Unfortunately, the streak ended in the championship round against La Salle.

We entered the state tournament in the top cede and with two championships under our belts. In the third round, we met our rival, Foxboro, at Bridgewater State College. It was a hard fought battle, and we gave it our all.

In the end we came up short, but as a team we are proud of all of our accomplishments in the past seasons. The seniors end their career with a record of ninety-three and f o u r ! Best of luck to our girls, we know you will keep the winning tradition!

After a brutal one and six start to the season (including two one-point losses to Millis and Holliston,) the Wolverines were in a must-win situation. Under the leadership of Captains Joe Broderick and Doug Collins the Wolverines went on a glorious rampage throughout the Tri-Valley League winning a scorching ten of the next eleven games.

The winning streak provided a slew of memorable moments including a twenty-point blow-out win over Medfield (previously undefeated in the league.) Other "streak" highlights include: a twenty-eight point blow-out win over Medway (a team to which WHS had fallen victim earlier in the season); a twenty-six point win over Holliston; and victories over Millis and Ashland. Near the end of the season, Christian McGowen's incredible performance earned a spot in the tournament.

The last three games, the Wolverines beat Medfield at a packed house in Medfield, lost on "senior night" to Hopkinton, but rebounded for a solid win over Dover-Sherborn. The Wolverines Cinderella season ended with a loss to eventual state champions Bellingham on February 25th. TUESDAY NIGHTS

Eight, Eleven and One

A glance at the girls' hockey record for 2003 doesn't do justice to how well we played this year. Playing primarily Division one teams, we had a grueling schedule against some definite powerhouses. Despite our daunting schedule we held our own on the ice.

We found ourselves in a pressure situation in our last home game, still looking to secure a tournament berth. We rose to the occasion, beating the Vineyard 3-0 and celebrating Caroline Donahue's 100th goal. Notorily did we earn a place in the tourney but Caroline Donahue became the all time leading scorer in the history of Westwood Girls Hockey.

When tournament time came, we found ourselves at the bottom with the twelfth seed, and facing the fifth seed Westford Academy. We served Westford a surprise with a 2-1 upset clinching the game in the last remaining minute. Our season ended against Wakefield with a five-two loss.

Despite the rigorous schedule, the team came together with the early morning practices, and a sense of unity on and off the ice. Who could forget ferry rides to Martha's Vineyard, trips to the 99, locker boxing, Bugaboo Creek, L-S chants, car crashes, Friendly's, sleepovers, and especially Stacey, the goose, our self-

Lead by coaching legend Suzy Riley, the men's swim team was able to post a great record and improve immensely. The team posted three school records including our relay team who shattered Westwood High School's previous record.

One of our most memorable meets was against Milford, where Joe Chiurri overpowered front runner Sean Brune in the fifty free and one hundred free. Chiurri was also able to anchor the two hundred free relay for a come from behind victory. At the end of the meet Chiurri said, "I went into the turn behind but Suzy was drilling me on my turns all week in practice so I was able to come out ahead and win the race."

The boys' swim team challenged the girls basketball team to a game of basketball, but the girls declined the offer. So the Riley vs. Riley game was cancelled.

One and Six

Under the leadership of a great new coach and bolstered by the support of energetic freshmen, the girls' indoor track season started off with a bang. We won our first meet in over two years, beating Tri Valley League newcomer Norton. This being our first win, we were pumped up and ready for the rest of the season. Unfortunately we weren't able to take home any other team wins this season. Overall our season was a memorable one, filled with lots of laughs and good times. Good Luck next year, girls!

ONE STEP at a TIME

Four and Two

The Boys' Indoor Track Team made great strides in 2002-03, pulling out some close wins and suffering some tight losses. After going 1-4 in 2001-02, the boys took a complete 180 and developed into one of the strongest teams in the TVL. A combination of veterans and new faces made it all possible. Seniors Dave Duff, Mark Burton, Saad Munir, Steve Small and Mike Springer pulled in points in the dash, hurdles, 300 M, 600 M, and 4 x 400 M relay. Meanwhile underclassmen runners, such as Nick Berlutti and Andres Castro, stepped up to score points in the 1000 M, 1-mile, and the 2-mile. Berlutti went on to finish the season as the League's champion in the 1000M.

The season began with a great deal of momentum as the team ransacked the TVL, winning each of its first four meets by 20 points or more. After a string of successes, Westwood met Medfield in a highly anticipated clash of TVL powerhouses. The league title was at stake and the teams were evenly matched. After a hard fought meet, we missed the title by a fraction of a second and a hundredth of an inch.

We would like to thank Coach Gary Burke for all the time he has put into keeping the program alive over the years. Without his work and sacrifice there would be no indoor track program and he deserves more thanks than we could ever give him. Good luck to next year's squad: take the title!

THE INSIDE EDGE

With fresh snow on the ground and a brand new chairlift in the air, the Westwood High School Ski Team's 2003 season started with a bang. Despite auspicious beginnings, the girls ended their first competition in a grim fashion with their top scorer finishing a disappointing 12th. After some fine tuning both the girls' and boys' teams worked out their bugs and got on a roll. By the end of the winter, all three members of the girls' team were headed to states, along with male counterpart Andy Bond representing the boys. All three ladies had superb showings at states, and made history after beating Milton to capture second place in the division.

Lead by three retiring veterans and joined by a batch of new freshmen, the boys' team also had an excellent season, edging out Cohasset for a 3rd place division finish.

Good luck next year guys!

PIERCE...GOT IT!

Six and Thirteen

It was a rough start for the team of 2003, with a series of rained out games and brutal indoor practices. Luckily the team was led by two new fantastic coaches, Brendan Dillon and Kerry Vogelgesang (and their sidekick Colin), along with a spunky group of five seniors. The morale was high and the girls were ready to prove to the Tri-Valley League that the Westwood Softball Team could swing with the "big leagues." After five devastating losses, it seemed as if they were headed down the same long, black road as last season. Fortunately a mixture of frustration and determination fueled the girls and they turned it around for their first and well earned win over Dover-Sherborn. Nevertheless the girls continued to work hard bringing home five more "W"'s this season along with four bitter-sweet losses in extra innings (by only one run!) including Ashland and Bellingham- who were tied for first place after Westwood knocked

Norton out of first place with our most memorable victory. Although some may have seen the losses as upsets, the team saw them as huge improvements and a reflection of all their hardwork. The highlights of the season were not only our greatly improved record but the cast of characters who made it possible.

Half way through the season we pulled up two rockin' frosh, Tricia and Susie, who proved to be great additions to the team. Our sophomores held strong with Maggie and her quick glove and our fantastic pitcher Jenn. Along with her 13Ks against Medway, she never failed to provide us with many laughs: wolfkicks and golf swings. In addition this year's team had a solid junior line: Laura with her nasty gun and huge hits, Meg O. being the outfield wall, and Meg H. and her animal instincts both on the mound and at the plate. (Tagteam back again!) And last but not least.. the SENIOR STANDOUTS... First up (literally) is Caroline: she knew how to shake it at the plate and never let us down with her bat. However she performed her best when her novio was watching. Next up Kerri: who unselfishly sacrificed her own batting average with countless bangers. And Jill, the team's dad, did an incredible job watching over first. She was incredible not only in the field but at bat first. Ashley added the sugar and spice, and she never let her muffins burn in the oven. Her injury left us worried, but Julie stepped up to help out. As a come-back member, Julie's out-field and catching skills were an asset to the team. All and all it was a great season with many unforgettable moments. How you fireh??

The Westwood Wolverines established themselves as one of the top baseball teams in the Tri-Valley League, facing four of the state's top pitchers. After a 3-0 start, Westwood felt invincible, but just as quickly, was 3-3. The incessant rain at the beginning of the season forced the team to play games practically every day, and the boys heated up at the right time, finishing 12-8 and clinching the first tournament berth in two years. In the preliminary round, Westwood faced Medway at home and came out on top in a game that came down to a thrilling seventh inning. Westwood then traveled to Harwich to face the number one seed but came up short. With wooden bats introduced for the first time, many of the games were very close and there were many great individual performances, including Dave Rees's 15 strikeout gem against Dover-Sherborn. The best team effort came in the playoffs. Best game: When the number 16 seed Westwood traveled down the Cape to face a senior laden top seeded Harwich, everyone except the Westwood players expected a blowout. The team sensed something during warm-ups, and played the best defense of the year. The Harwich lefty struck out fifteen batters, but sophomore Chris Walsh was equally masterful in mesmerizing the stacked Harwich lineup. In the end, Westwood ended up losing 1-0 on a suicide squeeze, but proved it belonged with the top team in the state.

The Men's tennis team (and we are men) came out of nowhere to start the season 7-0. Our Tri-Valley League foes were tragically wrong to underestimate us, assuming we lost our ability to win when superhuman Steve Kouri graduated. After a two match skid, which can be attributed to the crude tactics of Medway and "Metal Fest", the Wolverines finished the regular season perfectly. We are the Tri-Valley League champions once again, even without a standout star. In the past season, the Wolverines fell in the Quarterfinals to Norwell. We started off the season with a revenge victory against Hingham. We came from behind to win 11-10. We were especially excited since we lost to them in the tournament the previous year. Throughout the regular season we dominated the Tri-Valley League, claiming the Tri-Vally League title without much competition. Toward the end of the season in a match of the undefeated, we had an exciting victory against Winchester, our top rival. During tournament we defeated Milton, Hingham, Martha's Vineyard, reigning state champs Needham, and Winchester. With an exciting victory over Longmeadow, we claimed the state championship and ended with an undefeated record. This year's state championship was Westwood's first lacrosse title ever and gave Westwood High School five teams that won state championships in the last two years.

The season started with the hire of two new coaches a week before the first practice. The new policy of actually running a lot and being in shape for the season shocked the systems of several large players. We knew we had potential to do well this season, as our skills were much improved from last season, however our record did not show it. We took Medfield 4-3 into the 4th quarter in the middle of a monsoon. When we faced Holliston we showed what we could do and poured on the goals, winning by quite a few. Towards the end of the season we were in desperate need of wins, and pure sportsmanship was shown by the "right side," Lawfy and Mastaj when we played Hamilton-Wenham. The season ended with the "Backyard Brawl" against Xaverian where our raw talent brought the game into the final minutes when victory was snatched from our hands.

FASTER, HIGHER, STRONGER

Five and Four

Track is an individual sport and a track team is simply the sum of its parts. It's up to each individual athlete to make things happen. The Westwood track team members worked hard and gained personal successes. This year five team members competed at the class D meet in Norwell. Just qualifying for this meet is a major accomplishment. Nick Berluti, the team's best 800 runner, even managed to move on to the All-State Meet. Meanwhile, his teammates were busy making Westwood history. Andres Castro broke the sophomore season point record previously held by teammate Steve Small. Also, intermediate hurdlers Mark Burton and Steve Small both put their names on the top ten list for their events at WHS. Small also broke the school's all time point record with a total of 325 (records date back 30 years). Meanwhile, Seniors Andrew Keefe and Mike Springer showed improvement in their events and scored big points in many dual meets. As for the freshmen, hard work was this season's theme as runners like James Scales and Matt Donahue showed continued improvement throughout the season. Jason Dwyer was this year's freshman star making waves in the high hurdles, the 100 meter dash, and the long jump.

This year's team was about hard work and overcoming obstacles. The team finished with a winning record despite having no home track to practice on. This is due to hard work and perseverance. However, the team could not have done it alone. Great thanks are owed to Mr. Palmer who worked hard to get the team practice time and even a few home meets on the Xaverian track. Finally, a great deal of thanks is owed to Coach Hargreaves who has always been there for WHS track and kept this year's team seeing the brighter side of things rather than concentrating on the negatives.

Ahhhh the memories at Westwood High. I'd have to say that there are a lot of memories in this school that were both good and bad. The many pranks that have been implemented like the pigs and the spider web. I always used to like coming into the art wing and seeing the elaborate pranks in the courtyard. There were also some bad memories like the bomb threat and the retirement of Mr. Flahive. I have to say that high school has been quite an adventure and I wish I could do it again. Now we all move on to our next adventure, college, where we will be spread out all over the country only to see each other over our vacations and summer break. I want to remember Westwood High as a stepping stone to a great future. I want to be remembered as the goofy kid who had a great personality and was a great friend and I hope that is how people remember me as.

Everyone had fun frolicking in the foam on the front lawn of the school.

Brian Martell and Ryan Laughna graced us with their presence in togas at the Mardi Gras dance!

Hmm, what week is it???

Tayna Bechara and Megan Fafara take a breather at the dance.

Spring Fling

Spring Fling is a fun-filled week of activities and dress-up days organized by Student Council. 2003 student participation was very high. We began the week with the Talent Show in which many students' talents (both previously known and not known) were showcased. We had a beautiful afternoon for "Firemen's Foam." Hawaiian Day was a hit. We heard music from fellow classmates in what became the "indoor" concert due to rain. Kristen Kjellman was a spotlight contestant in Westwood High's own version of the T.V. show Singled Out (photo at left.) We ended the week with a beads-crazy Mardi Gras Dance, complete with our own "Shakira" solo (a.k.a. LJ.) Thanks to all who made Spring Fling a great success.

Graduation Address

Valedictorian Elizabeth Horvitz on the "Reality" of Everyday Kindnesses

A couple of days ago, our vice-president, Jill Naymie, stood here and recounted our class's history. As she spoke about the football games and the infamous "Mr. Westwood High" competition, all the memories flooded back to me. I remembered touring the school the summer before freshman year and being so confused by the convoluted hallways. I remember trying to find Ms. Staiti's classroom on the first days and getting so discouraged that I could have cried. I remember how excited I was when upperclassmen knew my name and how intimidating it was to have classes with sophomores. It's funny, because looking back on it all, I have memories of myself and of nearly every person sitting here before me, but those memories are not what we are today. We have changed. We are stronger, more mature, and more aware than we have ever been before.

Not only have we as individuals transformed, but the entire world has changed over the past four years. We walked into the school as freshmen, innocent and naive. We lived in a safe town in an untroubled nation. We felt untouchable.

On September 11th, my life, my perspective, and my perception of my place in this world changed forever. Suddenly, I realized that reality isn't something you can watch on the news or read in the paper. It's not a chapter in a textbook or a memorial in the park. It's you and it's me, it's your life and mine.

When the United States declared war on Iraq this past winter, I started to realize that this school and this community were part of something greater, a true part of the world around us. I remember walking into Mr. Dore's room one morning and seeing a list of recent Westwood High graduates that were fighting in the war. A few days later, Lindsay Finn brought in an article torn from the newspaper. Above the article was an image of a soldier fighting in Iraq. That soldier was her brother.

It was never so clear to me that this war was completely real. This was it. This was life, and it was ours. And now, it was our responsibility to make a change.

The choices we make and actions we take are more important than we may first realize. A simple action can influence, inspire, or help a person realize what friendship truly is. A couple of months ago, our parents hosted a fashion show to benefit the all-night graduation party. Every girl wanted to be a model and get her chance to be princess for the day. But, there were only twenty positions available and they filled up fast. When Lindsey Woodard arrived, she realized that there was no room left for her friend to sign up. So, Lindsey quietly crossed her name off the list and wrote her friend's name in its place. Lindsey gave up her position because she knew how much her friend wanted to be in the show.

Ankur Moitra is the same way. When Mr.

Mao handed out an impossibly hard integral test, he instructed his students to find a willing AP calculus student to help them solve a difficult problem. It turned out that Ankur was the only one who could solve the problem, and during that one day, he must have explained the solution thirty times. Ank didn't need to take the time to explain that math problem, just like Lindsey didn't need to give up her spot in the fashion show. Neither did Colleen Sullivan and Jen Gillis need to bake cookies for the entire grade on the last day of classes, nor did Ashley Wirth need to climb into the smelly Wolverine costume every time there was a big football game. These people perform these acts because they know they can make a difference. They know that the actions they make don't have to be tremendous. Just a bit of kindness can go a long way.

It may seem like your actions are small, or that they are unimportant, but these every day kindnesses are how we will begin to change the world. So if you are like Fran Chace, who devoted all her time into planning the perfect all-night graduation party; our principal, Ms. Wentworth, who finds a free minute during the day to chat with her students; or one of the many people who jumped out of their warm cars during the blizzard last winter to help me push my car out of the parking lot, I thank you for your kindness. You are the ones who are changing the world.

Class History

Looking back at the past six months, it has occurred to me that getting one's acceptance letter into college, although much anticipated, seems to come with a lot of unexpected baggage: the forms, the surprise placement tests, the orientations, and, of course, the endless conversations with relatives. Now I love my family - don't get me wrong - but sometimes having the exact same conversation with aunts, uncles, cousins, and grandparents can get a bit overwhelming. Where are you going to college? Is anyone in your class going with you? What will you major in? And so on, and so forth. All of these discussions have eventually blurred together, but there is one thing that does stick out in my mind. Over Christmas dinner, my uncle turned to me and asked, "So kiddo, you ready to begin your life?" I, of course, politely smiled and shook my head "yes" in response, but it got me thinking. I had heard this expression before, but was it true? Had I not begun my life? Does one's real life not really begin until after high school? And if so, then what the heck have we been doing these past four years? I began to think.

I thought back to freshman year, or "the good ol' days." We were no longer the large-and-in-charge eighth graders. We were the confused new kids and didn't quite know how to handle it. The building was huge, there were upperclassmen in our classes, and all of a sudden the boys could wear baseball caps all the time. Mr. Mao was taking our drinks, Mr. Tuccelli was scaring the living daylights out of us, and Mr. Baker, well, he told us to call him "doctor" and no one exactly knew why. As homecoming approached we began to feel comfortable, like we were a part of the school. And just as we began to settle in, we witnessed our first and last Mr. Westwood High competition. We would never be the same again. We cringed in anticipation of our first Data Match results, we stressed over Mr. Dillon's video project, and we participated in our first Oscar Night with Mr. Seider. By the end of the year, we were mature high-schoolers, and about ready to call another class of students "freshmen."

And there it was, sophomore year, or "the lost year." When surveying our class as to their favorite sophomore memories, I got a lot of "what exactly did we do sophomore year?" Well, let me refresh your memories. We were introduced to the mandatory MCAS exams and got a sneak peak of what the dreaded SATs would be like. We were given dozens of jelly donuts and told to sit still and take a test all day. The snack bar opened in the cafeteria, causing mass hysteria; our studies magically turned into free blocks; and, of course, Lorenz Schleppe joined us from Switzerland. A wave of school spirit washed over WHS as the girls' basketball team beat Littleton by 20 points to secure a victory in the Division 3 State Finals game- we were all in awe. And finally, in a triumph of class unity, we came together on a Saturday morning and made a trip to Six Flags. We all got sunburned, exhausted, and Mike Kinney won a really big dog- it was great. The end of the year approached and we were ready for junior year, or so we thought.

Junior year, or "crunch time" was upon us. Ms. Kelsch and TJB were staring us right in the face and the lingering thought of "this year is the year that colleges look at the most" never ceased to drive us nuts. Free blocks were spent in the library, "sick days" were spent at the computer and all of a sudden 24 hours didn't seem sufficient time for one day. And just as we were beginning to soak-in the essence of junior year, September 11th was upon us. It was a time for our class to come together under the worst of circumstances, but we came together none-the-less. Perhaps nothing demonstrated this better than the moving benefit concert put on by our very own chorus, band, and drama club. And as the rest of the country began to move on with their lives, so did we. We began to get our licenses and instead of walking from Christy's to Mobil and back to Christy's again, we could drive. It was fantastic. The Pats won the Superbowl and a good portion of the school took it upon themselves to be sick that Tuesday. Suddenly Oral English class popped up on our schedules, and we learned how to construct speeches and deliver them to our peers. How am I doing, am I alright? Am I on time Ms. Kelsch? And who could forget our sports teams that year. Boys' hockey, girls' basketball, and girls' tennis all won state titles. We held a pep rally in their honor and News Center 5 made its way to WHS. Westside Story fever swept over the school and the spring was upon us. We ended the year by taking the SATs, searching for the perfect college, and becoming best friends with our guidance counselors. We were ready for senior year - we were more than ready for senior year.

And it came. Senior year, or "the final hurrah" was here. Our cars were decorated, our senior shirts were on, and we were ready to experience that feeling of leadership that we hadn't felt since the eighth grade. We pulled into the school ready to begin this new adventure and, frankly, had no where to park. Our beloved front parking lot was gone and a new make-shift lot emerged. But we made due and began to settle into senior year. And the first thing on our plates - college admissions. We applied, and let's face it, we got rejected, deferred, and waitlisted, but in the end, we got accepted, and some of the best colleges and universities that this country has to offer realized just what they would be missing without us. We gave the mezzanine a new look, began to plan the ever memorable senior trips, and got to know our new principal, Ms. Jean Wentworth.

And all of a sudden we looked around, and we were the leaders of this school. It wasn't big, intimidating boys on the basketball court. It was our very own Joe Broderick. It wasn't Timmy Farren reciting a love poem at the talent show. It was Doug Collins with his xylophone rendition of old school Beastie Boys. It wasn't Simon belting out Enrique at Prom. It was LJ breaking out the Shakira. It wasn't James Ward in the bunny suit on Halloween. It was Chris Teehan as Darth Vader. It wasn't Johnny Dick running around tying up the loose ends of this school. It was lovable Mike Springer. And it wasn't untouchable boys strutting their stuff at the Mr. Westwood High Competition. It was our senior boys putting on their own strip show at the prom. We were the kids that we had been looking up to for three years. And then the year began to wind down and we started to count the "lasts." Our last Monday, our last homeroom, our last bagel in the caf. The last day of school came without fail and then senior week was upon us. The beach trip went beautifully as we incorporated some old traditions with some of our own. We rocked the traditional football games, and ultimate red-rover, and began a new tradition of digging an enormous hole. I am still sore from the digging.

And now here we are, this is it, our time, our Class Day. Instead of being incredibly uncomfortable up in the bleachers, we're incredibly uncomfortable on the gym floor, and we've made it, farther and greater than anyone expected us to. John Lennon once wrote, "Life is what happens to you when you're busy making other plans." Well, we may have been making other plans these past four years: what are we gonna do tonight, this weekend, ten years from now, but we were living none-the-less. So the next time you're sitting around at a family dinner and uncle "what's-his-name" asks you, "So, kiddo, you ready to begin your life?" Well, still politely shake your head "yes" and smile, but know that your life has already begun, just look around you, it's just about to get a whole lot better. Thank You.

Words of wisdom to our daughter as she continues her journey through life:

"Intelligence is something you are born with; effort and persistence determine what you achieve with it."

"Remember, if you don't know where you are going, you might not get there!"

"Success is getting what you want; Happiness is wanting what you get."

In memory of...

Some people leave a strong impression on others long after they have passed through their lives. This impact can be felt after having known them for a few minutes or a few years. Todd Schwartz was one of these people. His humor, kindness, and courage were strong components of his magnetic personality that many people will never forget. This past November, the nineteen year old Westwood graduate passed away after a three year battle with cancer. During his illness, Todd fought courageously and always stayed positive. When Todd was diagnosed with cancer, his focus was not on himself, but the effect it had on the people who cared about him. His selfless attitude and love of life will forever be remembered. Even through some of his own worst days, he used his smile and sense of humor to brighten the days of others. At Children's Hospital, he often reached out to the youngest cancer patients. Even when he was faced with adversity Todd always thought of others and did his best to support the Jimmy Fund, Dana Farber Cancer Institution, and other organizations that sponsored him.

This year the staff and the students of Westwood High School raised nearly fifteen hundred dollars and donated it to the Jimmy Fund in Todd's name. In addition, students and teachers have purchased many TJS bumper stickers. During lunches, donations were made to support the incredibly successful "Team Todd", a group of Todd's friends who walked the eighteen-hour Relay for Life. Frequent efforts are being made to continue Todd's work in support of cancer research. A website, www.fortodd.org, has been created as a tribute to Todd, to detail all stories and successes, and to post different ways of donating to the cause.

Todd was an amazing person who touched the lives of all he met. Todd lit up the room with his smile, his stories, his kindness, and his positive attitude. He was an inspiration to anyone who was privileged enough to spend time with him. Todd always glowed with a positive attitude. Todd had a heart of gold and always was helping in any way he could. Todd is an irreplaceable person and he is missed tremendously. The way he lived his life has touched us all. Even though Todd cannot be with us today, we are fortunate to have the ability to maintain his values. Whether Todd was talking about love, life, or his immense knowledge of Boston sports, Todd could always draw a smile. We should all be grateful to have known Todd, because in doing so a truly amazing hero has forever impacted

Todd Schwartz
